He is used exolusively for hunting, and only by natives -never by Europeans. The "Polygar" is a larger dog than the "Bunjara," standing from 27 inches to 31 inches at shoulder; he is not so ferocious either, but has equally good pluck, and never gives in alive. In colour he is bluich gray or dark gray; he is almost bare of hair, except on his head, which is covered with a fine coat, as sleek and soft a mole's He has bristles all over his body, like a pig; and, in fact, his skin much resembles that of a darkcoloured pig. Instantaneous photography has just been omployed by Mr. S. W. Gardner to demonstrate by Benares (New) 4881 ... optical proof the fact that the upper part of the wheel of a vehicle in motion travels more quickly than its lower part. Mr. Gardner has taken an omnibus wheel en route, and in this photograph whilst the lower ends of the spokes immediately adjacent to the ground are not preceptibly unsharpened by the motion, the tops of the upper spokes show an angular motion corresponding to about ten degrees. The photograph also most successfully expresses the fact that the wheel it represents is in rapid motion. Instantaneous photography, at the rate it is going ON PARIS,on, will soon have no more worlds to conquer!

Next year, Lord Charles Beresford says, Government is going to "send affoat," during the naval manœuvres, our most emigent constructors and chief engineers, who, it is thought, will gain much useful practical experience, "especially when the more modern ships are driving at full speed." At a hop at the United States, says the New York Times, there was one quadrille set in which the four young ladies represented the portly sum of $20,000,000. They were the two daughters of a banker, not a thousand miles from the corner of Wall and Broad Streets, the niece of a California senator, and the daughter of the family here which possesses the only cottage with a ballroom in the town. Each of these young ladies will, in the natural order of things, come into possession of $5,000,000 in her own right. Not one of them in engaged, or, so far as is known, has a saitor at all preferred. They are all four pretty, and were they not behind a golden barrier would be at least as lovable to the average man as the average girl of their age. The banker's two daughters are potite and brunette, and tasteful dressers. The niece is large and blonde, with an apparently sentimental disposition, and an erratic bustle. The young lady who dances in her own ballroom is likewise tall, blonde, and fine-looking. And yet, under the American matrimonial system, as at present constituted, the quartet have little prospect of making matches in any way desirable unless they journey abroad and purchase a tarnished coronet now in pawn, together with the incompatible human incumbrance thereto attucked. The fact is, heiresses in America are somewhat to be pitied.

The dress reform movement has spread to Norway and Sweden. According to the English. woman's Review the Swedish Society is prosecuting its work with great energy and success. Stockholm is the centre of the dress reform movement. An association was formed there two years ago with the object of discovering, westock, and then popularising, a dress fully in accordance with health. The members pledge themselves to further this object, but without binding themselves to wear any particular kind of dress. The dress advocated is very similar to that approved of in England. The underclothing for a child is of kniited cotton, or more usually cotton cloth, and consists of drawers and shirt. - The cloth, and consists of drawers and shirt. The drawers button below the knee. Reliand and these in winter are of thick stuff warmly lined. The outer dress is a skirt with a pocket on each side, and a (so called) English seaman's jacket; the jacket is buttoned on to the flannel bodice and the skirt on to the jacket, so that during the hour of school gymnastics the girls can take off the skirt easily. The stockings and boots also are hygienic. The dress for grown women is very like the reform dress already known in England. The necessity for avoiding weight in dress is always strongly insisted on by the Swedish ladies. Drawings of these clothes have been made and sent to all the girls' schools in Sweden, together with a circular asking the teachers to try to sell these drawings to the girls, who can easily out out their own clothes from Carometer them. A set of patterns is also now travelling from town to town for exhibition. Denmark and Finland have taken up the question, and the Scandinavian race bids fair to take a foremost place in the movement for dress reform.

INGLISH AND CHINESE DICTIONARY. WITH THE PUNTI AND MANDARIN PRONUNCIATION. An Anglo-Chinese Dictionary, published at the Daily Press Office, Hongkong. For comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled All the new words which the Chinese have of lete years been compelled to com to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extense. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given the accents being carefully marked on the best. principle hitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size Contributory Dividends are payable to all of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of Contributors of Business, whether they are space, schieving a clearness not previously attained and dispensing with those vest margins and vacant spaces which have heretofore characterized Chinese publications.

To illustrate the vast scope of the work the following facts are submitted for consideration !-Chalmers Vocabulary contains about 16,000 Chinese characters, and Medhurst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst this work contains more than 50,000 English The Undersigned, having been appointed words, and upwards of 600,000 Chinese characstudent of this difficult language absolutely requires examples to display the various appli-cations and equivalents of different words which 14 have one general meaning. Of these examples this work contains more than live times as many as any other Dictionary hitherto pub-For practical purposes the arrangement of the work is so complete, that a reference to its pages enables a person who understands English to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chinese. In this respect the work will be found indispensable to all Europeans residing in China, and to the natives themselves it explains subjects fully with which very few indeed of them are perfectly acquainted. To parties resident in England and interested 7.00 A.M. in China it cannot but be invaluable occasion-It comprises upwards of two thousand laure quarto pages. A Large REDUCTION in PRICE is made to Purchasers of SIX or more Copies. LONDON: TRUBNER & Co., 60, PATERNOSTER Row. HONGKONG'
